THEATRICAL.
The Harry Lindley Co. opened their week's engagement on Friday by the production of the romantic drama "Flowers of the Forest," before a fairly large sized and thoroughly enthusiastic audience. Mr. Lindley in the low comedy role of "The Kinchin," aroused unrestrained merriment, particularly in the dance scene in the second act, when the laughter and applause was loudly and incessantly prolonged. Miss Mathes, for her splendid impersonation of Cynthia, the gypsy maid, received well merited applause, and Josh. M. Chapman in the tragic role of "Ishmael" shared the honors of the evening with her. In the specialties, Little Ethel's topical song and graceful skirt dancing and Miss Mathes in her "Spanish Dance" were decidedly pleasing and attractive features of the evening's entertainment.
On Saturday afternoon the company played as a matinee "Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Ethel Lindley in the title role. It is needless to say that Mr. Lindley in his inimitable impersonation of "Hobbs" the green grocer, with salted codfish for sale and bananas to give away, aroused the greatest merriment, while his little daughter completely won the audience by her clever acting in the title role. The remainder of the company fully sustained the enviable reputation they established by their first night's performance.
In the evening the western comedy drama, "The Silver Bird" was produced before a crowded house. "The Silver Bird" is greatly similar to "Nugget Nell" which the Calgary Amateurs so ably played here about three years ago, the part of Nance, especially, being almost identical with the role of "Nugget Nell," so cleverly played by Miss Beveridge. In "The Silver Bird" the parts of "Lopez" by J. Lewis, "Harry Ripley" by Mr. Chapman, "Mark Red-wild" by E. P. Lewis and "Rags" by Mr. Marsh were ably played. Miss Mathes as "Nance" the western waif, received deserved applause, and Mr. Lindley in the low comedy role of "Barney" had only to open his mouth to bring down the house.
Mlle Natoli's skirt dance, between acts two and three, was beautiful and bewildering in its airy graceful curves.
To-night, the society comedy drama "My Queen" followed by the one act farce "The Weavers" will occupy the boards, when the undoubted ability of the company should procure for them another crowded house.

POLICE COURT.
On the information of Lydia Ickelhel, a German named Dryers was arrested and brought before Inspector Snyder to answer to the charge of "killing a prairie fire at White Mud and allowing the same to escape from his control." Owing to the illness of the witness, which prevented the case being immediately heard, the prisoner was allowed out on bail, and the case has been postponed until next Monday, the 17th.
At St. Albert on Friday, F. Peltier was, on the information of Corp. Casault, summoned to appear before Insp. Snyder to answer to a like charge of kindling and permitting a prairie fire to escape from his control. He was found guilty and fined $15 and costs.
At the police barracks here, on the information of Annie Larson, Jas. Goodridge was summoned to appear before Inspector Snyder under the master and servant's ordinance. The complainant claimed $22 being one month's wages as cook at the Jasper house, and the defendant's defence was that she had left his employ before her term of service expired. The justice of the peace found that the plaintiff had left before her month expired, and against the will of her employer, and had thereby forfeited her claim to wages as claimed. The case was, therefore, dismissed with costs against complainant.
At South Edmonton, on the information of Const. McCullough, a Russian named Kaullosky, was summoned to answer to the charge of furious driving. The defendant, it appears, drove down the Main-street of South Edmonton at an unseemly pace and while en route collided with a buggy driven by two young ladies, and took off two of the buggy's wheels, but fortunately without doing the occupants serious injury. On appearing before Insp. Snyder the reckless equestrian was taxed $1 and costs, and ordered to pay the damages which he had caused to the buggy.
Pat Mahr, a well-known local characer, was sent down to the Fort for three months, as a vagrant.

THE YUKON.
An experienced miner who has been through the Yukon, desires one or two men to join him in another gold prospecting expedition through that country. Address: "L. C.," BULLETIN office.

NORTHERN MAILS.
A letter received a short time ago from a trader in the north, and handed to the BULLETIN for publication, urges very strongly the establishment by the government of a mail service from Chipewyan into the farther north. At present there is a regular mail from Edmonton to Chipewyan, but any traders and trappers living beyond that limit are utterly in the dark as to all that transpires in the outside business world in which they are, necessarily, so largely interested. The amount of business done in this almost unknown "farther north," would surprise the outside world. During the season of 1896, two traders living at Fort Resolution, three hundred miles north of Chipewyan—and Her Majesty's mail—bought $35,000 worth of furs and this fur was sold in Edmonton. These traders are only two among many, and this year they expect to do a business equally as large as last. It is such men as these who would be aided in their business and assisted generally by the extension of the mail service, and as the letter states they do not ask for any frequent service, but would be satisfied if the government could see its way clear to send the mail into them twice during the winter and they in return offer to provide fish for the dog trains used in carrying the packet.

CLOSE OF THE DEBATE.

OTTAWA, May 1st, '97.
The tariff debate closed at 12 o'clock last night without any amendment having been proposed by the opposition. Although fault was found with many of its provisions from both sides of the House, no one seemed to be able or willing to give force to their objections by a vote rejecting the general principle involved. There is no doubt that the protective policy has not realized the expectations of its promoters in its general results, and the country is tired of it. In so far as the new tariff is a departure from the protective principle it is generally acceptable to the country, a fact which the opposition have recognized by not challenging a vote on it. While the fact that it is a radical departure from the general principle of protection renders it acceptable to the majority of the people, although protective duties have been to some extent retained. The government has declared its independence of the manufacturers, and this is what the people wanted. The more the manufacturers complain, object and protest the better the people are satisfied with the stand taken by the government. Numerous deputations from Montreal and other manufacturing centres have been interviewing the ministers during the past week, asking that certain reductions be not carried out. On the other hand the free trade element of the government party demand still further reductions. So far the one demand has balanced the other. The manufacturers are foolish if they do not take what they have got and be thankful; for the sentiment of the House and country, representing the great protecting classes, is that the special advantage of the manufacturers should be further curtailed rather than increased. The preferential trade clause of the tariff meets with general commendation as is really its strong point. It is not yet known what course will be taken by the opposition in committee of the whole, but it is expected that the discussion will not be unduly lengthened. It is understood that an arrangement between both leaders has been reached to close the House early in June.
The railway question has not yet come up for discussion and nothing is yet decided. The opinions of members of the cabinet vary very widely. The reports circulated by the Globe that an arrangement had been arrived at between the government and the C. P. R. regarding the Crow's Nest Pass road was absolutely untrue.

THE GOLDEN WEST.

From the Liverpool Mercury, April 24th: Frank Richards, the first captain of the first company of the Liverpool boys' brigade, who travelled through the United States and Canada to personally investigate the country and its prospects for the young men of Great Britain, writes to us in reference to the excitement recently caused in consequence of the announcement in the press that a government surveyor, Mr. Wm. Ogilvie, who has been wintering on the Yukon river, has advised Mr. Sifton, at Ottawa, of valuable gold discoveries on the tributaries of that river, which are not in British Columbia, but northeast of the province. Mr. Richards states that the most northern tributary of the Yukon river runs within a few miles of the Mackenzie river, which empties itself into the Arctic Ocean. The greater part of the Yukon river, say sevenths of its length, is in Alaska, which is United States territory, the northern part of which is quite 2000 miles from the United States proper, the greater portion of the river being within the Arctic Circle. This part of the country is very mountainous, and comprises the northern portion of the gigantic mountain ranges which form the backbone of the American continent. It is said that a report has been received from Inspector Constantine by the government in Ottawa. In this report it is declared that new goldfields on the McQueston, Stewart, Pelly, Salmon, Klondike and other known bearing streams only await facilities for transportation of provisions to be opened up. It will be apparent that the principal obstacles in the development of these vast gold fields are the climatic condition of the country—the difficulty of access, in the first instance, and the scarcity of provisions, as the natural result of residing on the borders of and within the Arctic Circle.

It may be of some interest if it is stated that the way in which I reached the gold fields in the Northwest Territories. It was by steamboat to New York, and then journeying several days on the railway, over Niagara, by steamboat on the large lakes, and through the Lake of the Woods, and then travelling a thousand miles across the prairies, via Winnipeg and Regina (Regina is the capital of the Northwest Territories, a point of deviation for settlers who occupy that country which lies to the north. It is here that the executive council of the Northwest Territories meet, representatives of Assiniboia, Alberta, and Saskatchewan which are under the jurisdiction of a lieutenant-governor. It is also the headquarters of the mounted police, a fine military organization numbering 1000 men. The population is between 2000 any 3000 persons) and Calgary, which is 2260 miles from Montreal. It was from this place that the first view of the Rocky Mountains was obtained, 150 miles away, a fact which goes to illustrate the delightful clearness and rarity of the atmosphere in these northern districts. Calgary has a population of about 5000, and is a very handsome stone built town. It is charmingly situated on a hill-girt plateau. The course then lay direct north, crossing the North Saskatchewan river at Edmonton, an old post of the Hudson's Bay Company, now a rising town. Both Calgary and Edmonton are admirably served journalistically by Mr. W. Leigh Bernard, Lincoln's Inn barrister, and Frank Oliver, an M. P. for Alberta. The distance from Calgary to the district referred to by Messrs. Ogilvie and Constantine is about 1500 miles as the crow flies, over mountain, valley and river, through Alberta, Athabasca and the northern part of British Columbia, into a country not yet divided into provinces or settled.

This undoubtedly is the best route by which to reach the country first mentioned, crossing at Fort Saskatchewan the North Saskatchewan river, which is wide and navigable for a very long distance. It is nearly 2000 miles long. The principal mountains in Athabasca are the Cariboo and Reindeer. The Athabasca river would have to be crossed, and afterwards the Smoky river, and proceeding by way of Fort St. John or Fort McLeod, or taking the route by Fort Vermilion on the Peace river, 56 deg. 0 min. N., 117 deg. 0 min. W., which takes its rise in the Athabasca lake at Fort Chipewyan. (These forts are frequently old outposts of the Hudson's Bay Company. And it is due to the honorable dealing of the company that we are able to successfully deal with the Indians in these northern latitudes.) And then, after crossing the Liard river, an important river with many tributaries, and which rises in the same district as the Pelly river, the gold fields are reached. It must be remembered that these rivers are in the same latitude as Greenland and Iceland. Another route, and one that has been taken, is by ship from Vancouver to the northwest shores of Alaska; but, the hardships and the mountain ranges to be crossed after the passage by ship is over, are difficulties which require serious consideration. I think Mount St. Elias (10,500ft.), Fairweather (14,708ft.), and Mount Crillon (13,500ft.) would all be seen at one and the same time in this district, and the height of which conveys some idea as to the difficulty of access in this direction.

The principal object in writing is to afford young Englishmen some reliable information as to this locality. It is not intended, to discredit Mr. Ogilvie's statement as to the abundance of precious metals in this country, which is the richest in the whole world; but, having been in the gold mines in British Columbia in 1892, and on the old roads that miners had to travel in the fifties, it is my duty to remind them that there is such a thing as difficulty of access and transit, ice and snow, and scarcity of provisions, in the Arctic circle; and from what I know of gold washing on these northern rivers, I think I would much rather sweep the streets of London, and as a crossing-sweeper I should have considerably more comfort, less exposure, and probably more money at the end of the year. There is plenty of gold nearer home, both in the Lake of the Woods, northeast of Lake Superior, a country through which Lord Wolseley took the Red River expedition, and in the Kootenay district in British Columbia, which is easily reached on the Canadian Pacific Railway. If it occupied 20 days to reach Calgary from England, it would occupy 100 more days to reach the gold fields on the Yukon river. Mr. Harry de Windt endured terrible suffering on the Russian coast opposite to the mouth of the Yukon river, and it may be taken for granted, I venture to think, that miners on the Yukon or any of its tributaries could only work from three to four months in the year. The inhabitants of Alaska are a very inferior kind of Eskimo, and the majority of them will reside on the coast of the Behring Sea and North Pacific in order to get walrus—the flesh of which they eat, and the tusks of which they trade in. In many of these places there is not even a blade of grass, and the winds are so terrible on the highlands that it is almost impossible to exist. The greater part of the land in the locality of the rivers and tributaries previously referred to is from 2000 to 5000 feet above sea level. It may be mentioned that some of the Indian tribes in British Columbia and on the islands are cannibals. They are a very inferior type of Indian to those met with on the prairies.

If any young man seriously intends to go in for gold mining, then he had better go direct to Revelstoke, and from this centre locate himself according to the best information he gets; and if he has sound judgment, wind and limb, plenty of energy, industry, money and friends, he can make a fortune. He will be able to see ice and snow here all the year round without going nearly 2000 miles north to the Arctic Circle—where gold may be had in abundance, but where it is reasonably possible to die of starvation with pockets full of gold in actual possession.

From the above 29 men the 24 inclusive of the commander will be chosen after a month's drill.

It is not yet settled whether horses will be taken from Canada. The commissioner has a splendid group of horses picked out—all natives, and each as sound as a bell. To show these horses in England would be a good advertisement for the Northwest ranges.

GENERAL NEWS.

Hon. Clifford Sifton returned to Ottawa from his western trips on Tuesday last.

Bills to incorporate the Yukon and Hudson's Bay railway company and the Trappist Monks, of Manitoba, were read a second time in the house of commons.

Rumors conflict materially as to the diplomatic attitude of the Turks according to one report, Edhem Pasha has asked armistice of five days; according to another, an armistice already exists by the tacit acquiescence of both commanders; while the third describes Edhem Pasha as only awaiting reinforcements for an attack upon Pharus, to be followed by an attack upon Volo.

By a new ruling of the supreme court of Canada on the marriage law, persons married in Canada, who go to the United States for divorce and then return are guilty of a bigamous act and liable to the penalty inflicted by the criminal code.

The provincial legislature of British Columbia has, by a vote of 19 to 10, passed a decisive change in the mineral act, under which any person requiring free miner's rights must not only be over 18, but also be either a British subject or else declare an intention so to become. The change will be popular with Canadian and British born residents of British Columbia, but the United States miners will not relish this adoption of the Pacific province of their own western states policy of preferring the subject, native born or naturalized, to the alien, as regards the obtaining of most valuable privileges.

MR. JURY ON THE EDMON-TON DISTRICT.

A. F. Jury, immigration agent in England, who visited this district a short time ago, returned to Toronto a couple of weeks ago and in an interview with a representative of the Globe, had the following information to give concerning the Edmonton district.

From Calgary I went to Edmonton, 190 miles north. There seems to be a large tract of fine land along the line of railway, but it is much tied up by railway and land companies. It is not all fit for farming but the greater part of it is as fine land as any out of doors.
From Edmonton I drove to St. Albert mission, a French-Canadian settlement about eight or nine miles distant, and a fine farming locality which is making great progress. I also visited Fort Saskatchewan and Agricola and at the latter place met Mr. Pearce an emigrant from the Parry Sound district. Mr.
Pearce showed me the class of crops he raised on his farm, and the wheat, oats and peas were of the finest quality.
For the five years he has been there, he told me, he has never had a grain of wheat frozen and all that he has grown has been No. 1 hard.

The country is well watered and well timbered and the farmers when they team their produce to market at Edmonton can take a return load of coal at $1.25 a ton. As an illustration of the market offered this district by the opening up of the Kootenay I might say that I came out of British Columbia in company with a Mr.
McCarron, who had been at Rossland with produce from Edmonton. I parted with him at Edmonton to go over the surrounding country, and on my return he had collected, during the three working days allowed him, two carloads of hay, oats and eggs. For the eggs alone he had paid the small farmers $1000 in cash, which proves a great blessing to them, seeing that in the past they had to exchange their produce for store truck.

In addition to the farming advantages of the Edmonton district, the settlers are likely to experience a very lively gold mining boom. The river bars of the Saskatchewan, which have been for about fifty years worked by grizzly miners, are likely to prove the subject of this boom. It is claimed by the best local authorities, and the claim is verified by assays made by the best experts on the continent, that the black sand which in the past has been thrown away by those men contains $250 a ton in gold.

Altogether I think the Edmonton district offers exceptional advantages to the settler with a limited capital, either from Ontario or the mother country.
It seems a district peculiarly adapted to the farmer who has been unsuccessful on the poorer lands of Ontario, for here he would find climatic conditions similar to those of Parry Sound, Muskoka and northern Quebec, with the additional advantage of a magnificent soil.

ANGUS RIDGE.

The attendance of the Battle river school for April was 17.

Messrs. E. Thirk, W. Shantz and Will Blyn, who had an attack of the grippe, are in their usual health.

Farmers are busy seeding here.

Prairie fires have been quite common in our vicinity for the last eight or ten days. Some people are too careless in starting fires.

The Methodists intend holding service in the school house in a short time.

The ratepayers should take steps during the summer to build a shed at the Battle river school in the fall. It would not cost much if all would help.

Mr. Robertson is making several improvements on his farm.

The majority in this district favor the single tax system.

The weather has been rather windy here for the past two weeks. The last shower was a great blessing.

Why not have a summer school during the holidays for the teachers of the Northwest Territories? Science, especially botany, could be taught as there are plenty of wild flowers. It would be an advantage to the teachers who are working up for first-class certificates especially in mathematics and literature. Principal Goggin, or the principals of the collegiate, could manage the work successfully. Summer schools are getting quite common now in America. There is one held in the Maritime provinces every summer, but it only lasts two weeks.

May 1st, 1897.

The Senate passed a bill on the 3rd making the 24th of May a perpetual holiday.

Ottawa: Alf Jury is here on his way to England, where he goes as immigrant agent.

ELEVEN HUNDRED IMMI-GRANTS.

Free Press, April 2nd: The steamships Arcadia and Scotia, having on board large parties of Galicians, have reached Montreal and Quebec, and their passengers are now en route west on two special trains. The first train with 500 passengers, left Montreal on Sunday, and a second, having 650 passengers, left Quebec this morning.
Officers of the interior department accompany each train, and members of the local Dominion immigration staff have been sent east to meet the incoming parties at Port Arthur.

MANAWAN.

Seeding is well advanced in this district.

The lake was clear of ice before the end of April, earlier than it has been for years.

Fires are still burning to the north and west. W. R. Brereton lost his stables and store house by prairie fire on the 26th of April.

Mr. Ferguson, Presbyterian missionary at Beaver lake, gave this district a call last week.

At last we are going to get a Post office, "Whitford" is to be the name of it. This name for our Post office in the Manawan district and a "Manawan" post office outside the district will rather complicate matters. Something should be done to either change the name of the district or the post office.
J. C. Gordon is the postmaster elect.

Mr. Wm. Cinnamon, of Vermilion, has taken up the homestead released by Ebbbee and is putting in a crop.

A number of our young men have gone to try their luck on the river.

May 3rd, '97.

The Free Press says: The high water excitement as far as the season of 1897 is concerned is now certainly over. The water continues to fall.

Ten of the employees of the Indian office at Regina have received notice that their services will not be required after June 30th. Three, perhaps four, will remain at Regina, in addition to the commissioner.

A London despatch to the Sun says that Spain is in great difficulties and the hardships of war are increased by the failure of crops. Landlords, farmers and agricultural laborers are on the verge of a rebellion, and are arising in the villages and looting provision stores.
